

Canna - Terra Flores

The Canna Terra range of nutrients has been developed for cultivation both indoors and outdoors. Canna Terra was the first nutrient on the market that was developed for cultivation on soil. Canna Terra remains unequalled due to its revolutionary Terra formula and the high standards that Canna sets during production.

Canna's fertilizers have a bio-tropical effect. They are absorbed by the plant's systems in a natural way. Canna Terra ensures that there is an optimum balance in the plant cells, and also increases resistance. In contrast with other fertilizers, Terra's products are absorbed quickly. This is important for fast-growing plants since the developmental phases follow on after each other very quickly. This high degree of absorbability means that the plant only has to devote a small amount of energy to this process, which enables it to focus completely on growth and flowering.
