

Sensi Seeds - Four Way ®

This strain is an early success from programs to create stable, multiple-hybrid cannabis. Starting in the Eighties, intensive breeding projects worked with highly varied and complex gene pools which 'stacked' desirable features from a wide range of parents and ancestors to produce hybrids which could consistently express those traits in interesting combinations.

Generation after generation of excellent genotypes were cross-bred, with all seed-offspring closely observed and compared to identify the best individuals. In each generation, selected plants were either back-crossed with parents to stabilise desired traits or introduced to the next ganja genotype in the group
