

Mr Nice Seed Bank - Angel's Breathe

To this day, the most silent but highest achieving plant coming out of the MNS camp since Super Silver Haze is the Mango Haze. This was made with the proven parent line that SSH came from as well as a long line of pedigree winning and highly performing plants! The flavor of the Mango Haze is so close to that of a ripe Mango you feel to chew its aromas as you sample it a classic plant that is clearly selected for the terpenes it holds within its genetic make-up, since its effect is as good as it gets.! It can be a little tricky with selection but being thorough with the elements you feel to have in a plant, this hybrid can make it all happen for a patient and meticulous grower alike. It will be like finding a large gold nugget in a river bed once you put in the time and do the selection work, however patience will be required as it has the possibility to flower for up to 11 to 12 weeks.

Simply flower a clone coming from the seed mother to reduce the flowering time as this is a tip that a lot of Haze growers recognized independently since the onset of the internet helpdesks and forums. For people who wish to adventure into a delicate world where exquisite flavors and sensational highs are possible without being in a hurry or without having to grow for commercial reasons then this is a plant worthy to grace your gardens! Very highly recommended for all growers who are ready to find something special. An expected yield per square meter indoors would range between 400-550 grams.

Outdoors and greenhouses will reward you with substantial yields especially if this plant is tipped during its growing phase several times. With a 50% Haze influence this is going to be a little more challenging to grow and will need patience, but the rewards will be more than worthwhile a flower most all of us will be happy to bring out for New Year or big events in time!
