

Mr Nice Seed Bank - Mango X Widow

The combination of the genetic make up is very impressive and combines two superb hybrids into a single plant line. Its origins are taken from all corners of the globe and manifest as excellent flavors and tastes that ever good grower should try one time in the life. Mind you it will take some good selecting and poses a serious challenge in decision making.

It should be expected to be harvested between 8 to 10 weeks but it really depends on the climatic factors and the selected phenotype. As for yield it should be moderate to good, but in the end it is not only yield that motivates a grower, having these dried flowers in your medicine cabinet will be an honor even the best cultivator will one day demand. There is something very special possible in this particular hybrid due to its complexity, can you find it?
