

Reflector - Lucilu

This reflector is made of a material that is reflective coated. As a result, the reflection is many times higher than with an average reflector.

In addition, the cap is designed so that it reflects the most important colors, the red and orange shades for the photosynthesis and the blue for the growth. The coating layer also ensures that the power does not decrease. The coating makes sure that the cap is not affected by oxidation. It's a pretty full hood that is suitable for both small and larger breeding areas. When placing the bulb in the hood you should make sure that you properly tighten the lamp (not too tight). Does the light not always turn the light off and back into the socket, you will see that the problem is often solved.
